Hi Maria!

Your timing is perfect. We just held our first California Maritime Infrastructure Authority seminar in San Francisco and it went pretty well. Based upon that, here are my requests for our Dana Point seminar on June 12 from 10AM - 2PM.

Looking at the RSVPs so far, please set the room up for 20 people, classroom style. Also, maybe a table near the podium; a projector screen; and a small table for your ppt projector would be great. Lastly, some table along the back or side wall for the caterer to use would be perfect. I think we previously spoke about using a patio for lunch, but our method so far is to only take a break to get lunch, then continue the seminar while people are finishing up. So, as inviting as outside would be, I think we need to keep all inside for the duration. I will try to be there about 8:30 AM on June 12 just to get my stuff in the room and help you any way that I can with room set up. Please let me know the address and the room number/name so I can pass it along to the registrants. If you need any more info from me, please let me know!

Thanks!
David

Good morning David. We need a bit more information from you. We have a couple of rooms available, one is smaller than the other and I'm not sure which one would suite your needs. I see this is a seminar...will you need classroom style seating?

Are you looking to have lunch in the room or would you like to have an outdoor courtyard lunch?

Also, will you require a projector and screen?

For your catering needs I have attached a list of approved vendors.

We look forward to assisting you with your meeting room arrangements.

Thank you,

David,

I am sure we can find something. As far as catering, we have a pretty good variety here in Dana Point. My assistant Maria can help you with that. We are checking availability of rooms now and will get back to you if we have something available.

Hi Brad!

As you know, the California Maritime Infrastructure Authority (CMIA) will be putting on two infrastructure financing seminars this spring (one Northern California/one Southern California). For the Southern Seminar, I would like to request use of a room in your complex at Dana Point. Any room that holds approximately 30 people would be okay. We are planning for June 12, from 10AM-2PM. I would also like to know your thoughts on a caterer as CMIA will also be providing lunch.

Thanks Brad! Please let me know what you find out!

IRS Publishes Guide for Conduit Issuers

Tuesday, May 29, 2012

By Lynn Hume

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service has published a tax law compliance guide for issuers in conduit bond transactions.

The 12-page publication, "Your Responsibilities as a Conduit Issuer of Tax-Exempt Bonds," describes conduit deals, which can involve governmental bonds, private-activity bonds or 501(c)(3) bonds benefiting nonprofit organizations.

In conduit deals, an issuer sells the bonds and loans the proceeds to a borrower, such as a hospital or a developer.

The IRS guide details the forms that must be filed for such transactions as well as the procedures for filing the forms late.

It also describes the requirements for private-activity bonds, including volume cap restrictions and carry-forward requirements, public approval requirements, limits on fees charged by the issuer and issuer certifications about the expectations for the use and investment of bond proceeds.

The IRS outlines the modifications that can be made to conduit bonds that can cause them to be reissued as new bonds subject to the most recent tax requirements.

It also describes remedial actions the issuer can take to address potential tax law problems.

Treasury rules for PABs require that issuers make certain elections in writing before the bonds are issued, the IRS said in the guide. The document lists these, such as an election to pay a 1.5% penalty in lieu of rebating arbitrage profits.

The IRS guide details the arbitrage rebate and yield reduction payment requirements that may apply to conduit issuers, as well as the sanctions for failing to meet these requirements and the procedures for requesting the recovery of overpayments of arbitrage that was rebated.

The IRS notes that under its administrative procedures, the conduit issuer, rather than the borrower, is treated as the "taxpayer" when it audits bonds.

"This means that the conduit issuer will receive the letter initiating the examination and must be a party to any closing agreement resolving an IRS examination," the agency said in the guide. Closing agreements are settlements under which the issuer agrees to pay the IRS money to settle tax violations in return for the agency's maintaining the tax-exempt status of the bonds.

The guide describes the IRS' voluntary closing agreement program, under which issuers can voluntarily report, and take certain prescribed actions to remedy, specified tax violations.

The IRS also explains how an issuer can request a private-letter ruling when it is uncertain about compliance with tax requirements.

MEMORANDUM

May 24, 2012

TO: Board of Harbor Commissioners

FROM: Peter Grenell, General Manager

SUBJECT: Report on CMIA/B Seminar on "Financing Port and Marina Infrastructure: Tomorrow's Ideas for Today", May 23, 2012 at Port of San Francisco

Cc: Scott Grindy, Harbor Master
Jean B. Savaree, District Counsel

This report responds to the Board's request for same at the previous Harbor Commission meeting. I have included materials provided at the seminar for your information. Although the Power Point presentation is lengthy, it will give you a comprehensive and detailed picture of the CMIA/B, its goals and major accomplishments to date, and, I hope, a clearer understanding of why the Harbor District became a CMIA member.

Background: The CA Maritime Infrastructure Authority (CMIA), a joint powers authority, was created by the CA Maritime Infrastructure Bank (CMIB), which itself was created by the State Legislature upon the initiative of the CA Marine Affairs and Navigation Conference (CMANC). The CMIA was established to provide a mechanism for financing port and harbor infrastructure. In contrast to several other coastal states, California has had no other active state port and harbor infrastructure agency; the Department of Boating and Waterways (DBW) has a limited charge to fund marina docks, small craft launch ramps, and some related facilities, with the emphasis on recreational boating. The Coastal Conservancy's Urban Waterfronts program has funded some pier projects, but its emphasis has been on public access.

Peter Grenell, General Manage

SMCHD joined the CMIA in the year 2000 by resolution. Initially, the Harbor District explored using the CMIA to facilitate provision of financing for a proposed hotel project at Oyster Point Marina/Park using tax-exempt revenue bonds. Unfortunately, the project did not prove to be financially feasible. Currently, District-initiated projects such as development on PPH's perched beach and the multi-use building for the District office, visitor center, and other revenue-generating uses could potentially use CMIA as a financing vehicle. (E. g., check the Port of Santa Cruz's CMIA-financed multi-purpose building project in the seminar materials.)

The Seminar: The CMIA is now reaching out to California ports and harbors in a direct attempt to promote the agency's services, and elicit local port and harbor interest in possible creative financing approaches through CMIA not available from DBW or the Coastal Conservancy. Two seminars have been planned, for northern California (just occurred on May 23rd in San Francisco), and one for southern California at Dana Point Harbor in Orange County in mid-June. Seminar content will be the same for both seminars (see attachments). As a board member of the CMIA/B, the District's General Manager assisted in program planning and participated in the San Francisco seminar in presenting informational materials and engaging in dialogue with seminar attendees, and will do so at the June seminar.

Hi Peter,

Yes, I planned on the powerpoint just continually running during the seminar, with each presenter using their own part of it. Your slides so far are 1,2,3 and maybe 4. Either you or I depending on the flow could ask the crowd to introduce itself and give a short "why am I here" statement. i will write these down on big paper for later reference.

Brian and I have spoken previously about putting the slide show on the web site and think it is a good idea. We will see how it goes and ask Jim about putting it on CMANCs site.

David,

Is the plan to show the PowerPoint first, or refer to the different sections as each presenter comes up? I assume the latter, so it is ongoing backdrop and tool.

Also, I assume we will put it on the website after SF. This to enable tweaking if desired. Likely to generate a bit more interest in attending. How about putting it on CMANC's website, too?

Hi Brian,

I'm just booking my ticket. Looks like it will be $313 roundtrip on southwest for the cheapest deal. Is that alright with you? Let me know and then I will book.

Thanks,
Jenner

I can get you a couple of things tomorrow morning. Meanwhile check out CMIA web. It has some boiler plate about who we are..... All volunteer, screw our selves out of the ground when needed, Ninja warriors. We really do have some real pros on team all for free.

Hi Brian,

I will be attending the monthly San Diego Dockmasters luncheon tomorrow, attended by most of the San Diego Bay marina managers and dockmasters. I have spoken to the organizer about your group I will be given a few minutes to ask some of your questions regarding small craft harbors.

Would you have any kind of literature, brochure or fact sheet about the CMIA you could email to me? They didn't seem very familiar with the organization and I wanted to be able to explain more about CMIA to the group.
Thanks,
Annette

Good Evening Annette and Jenner: Thanks for your initiative on this. There will be a power point set up at the meeting. So if you have a CD or a memory stick, you will be all set.
The type of information that we outlined for San Diego's element is still right on point and will integrate well with the rest of the program. Call if you need any further direction.
Your input as outlined will be most appreciated by the attendees.
David is still refining the agenda. We will send the next draft as it comes in.

For Jenner: would be glad to pick you up at either SFO or SJO the morning of the seminar (May 23rd). Let me know.

Thanks again for effort

FYI Doug Charchenko's presentation outline is attached. He is the CMIA/CMIB financial advisor and will be talking about the capabilities of the two organization to provide funding to the maritime.

Jenner: PPP is excellant. Don't know if David will get it by email. He is already on the road. Probably so. I just sent him an updated version. But we should both bring a separate CD of memory stick in case it doesn't transfer by the "cloud".

Again I will meet you on the departure level (upper) of terminal 1, where SW, comes in. Dk Blue Lexus SUV. I have Portuguese flag.

I will bring it. Yelling "Smith" out on hwy 101 probably won't hack it. 831 476 1879.....

Hi Guys,

I've attached the presentation to this email for you to have ready tomorrow. It really is just a background on the Port with an overview of some upcoming projects and then a discussion of some marina statistics in San Diego Bay. Let me know if there is anything else you want me to hit on.

Thanks,
Jenner

Jenner:Sorry for the delay. Out of town. Yes book it and give me the details of the flight so we can coordinate the time. Call my cell when you land and I'll meet you. I have a dark blue Lexus SUV. I'll show up in front of the Southwest terminal on the upper roadway..which is the departure level.

Could you send your power point presentation to David Hull. He will have it loaded when we get there. He's at <hullspier@aol.com>

Let me know if I can do anything else.
